CONTRACT AWARDED FOR SIDEWALK WORK

At the regular meeting of the City Council last Monday evening many residents were present, and several matters of interest were acted upon by the members of the board.

The contract for sidewalks in the West End was awarded to the Bay Concrete Company, the bid being $4,419.60. This is a much needed improvement, and one that will be enjoyed by all those living in that district.

A letter was received from Mr. B. R. Cashin, complaining about dogs around his neighborhood, and the complaint was referred to the chief of police.

The contracting firm that is paving the City Park asked for further time, on account of weather conditions.

The water committee reported the new city well one of the best, with an abundance of water of the character Daly City is noted for—the best in all California.

The library committee will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 at the library to arrange several matters for the interest of its users.

The ordinance committee promised to have the new uniform traffic ordinance ready for the next meeting. As this requires a lot of study, the committee has asked the assistance of Chief Doyle and the California Automobile Association, to lay out the main traffic lanes and stops.

Permission was granted Mr. Robson to pave and set sewers in the new block of Irvington street, between Acton and Templeton. When the work is completed, Daly City will have a new tract of houses built by the firm of Robson & Robson, the same people who built so many fine homes on Rice street between San Jose and Mission streets.

A request from the San Francisco city engineer's office, asking to cut a road through Cloverdale avenue, was laid over until the map was presented for approval.

After the bills and salaries for the month had been ordered paid, the Council adjourned to meet again on Monday evening, February 11.

PIONEER OF COUNTY ANSWERS SUMMONS

Alfred Fletcher Giddings, a pioneer of San Mateo county, passed away at his home, 47 Vendome avenue, Daly City, on last Friday, January 25, after two days' illness.

Although he had lived in Daly City for only three years, Mr. Giddings was well known throughout the county, coming here in 1876, and settling with his wife in Redwood City, where they lived for several years. Later Mr. Giddings was made foreman of the Cummings, Harper ranch, which was situated where the Mills Memorial hospital now stands.

Mr. and Mrs. Giddings celebrated the fifty-eighth anniversary of their wedding on August 27, last.

Mr. Giddings was a member of Victory Lodge, Fraternal Brotherhood. He was the beloved husband of Ada M. Giddings, father of Wallace Eugene and La Forrest Fletcher Giddings and the late Ethel May Bailey, and the loving grandfather of Alfred F. Giddings, La Forest Leslie and Lois Ethel Bailey, and the late Willa Francis and Louis Fletcher Bailey.

The funeral was held last Saturday afternoon from the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co., interment being at Mount Olivet cemetery.

ST. MAXIMUS BOYS LOSE FIRST GAME

On Wednesday evening, January 23, the Senior Boys' Club basketball team lost a spirited game to the Wesley church team of San Francisco. The score was 33 to 26 against the locals. Defeat was not surprising, as this was the Boys' Club first start. The line-up for the game was as follows: Forwards, Fields and Camina; Guards, Colloty and Sweeney; Center, Power; Substitutions, Fields for Power, Romiguire for Sweeney, Murphy for Colloty, Gleisner for Murphy, Murphy for Romiguire.

Power at center surprised in the first seconds of play and sunk two baskets before Wesley got a start, a foul on Camina giving them their first point. Camina and Fields, both forwards, were outstanding in this game, which proved to be a tussle from start to finish.

Crocker-Pershing P. T. A. Whist

The whist party held at the home of Mrs. S. A. Landini on Friday, January 25, for the benefit of Crocker-Pershing Parent-Teachers' Association, was both a social and financial success. The officers of the association, as well as the hostess, extend their thanks to those who were present and also anyone who helped in any way to make the affair such a success.

EAGLES TO CELEBRATE 20TH ANNIVERSARY

Next Thursday evening, February 7, the members of Colma-Vista Grande Aerie No. 1848, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will celebrate their twentieth anniversary, entertaining many visitors from the Peninsula Aeries, and their Grand Worthy President, Edward J. Ryan, of Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. Ryan, who is noted as a great orator, will deliver an address on Eagledom which will be of great interest to all its members.

Colma-Vista Grande Aerie has consider it an honor to have such a distinguished visitor on this occasion, and are making arrangements for an elaborate celebration to make his visit a pleasant one.

Over forty new members will be initiated in his honor, and he will be given the pleasure of presenting a twenty year service pin to local veteran Eagles. Those scheduled to receive these pins are: Antone Sturla, L. Shaw, P. G. G. Kunze, James T. Casey, E. Nessier, J. Rehaume, Peter Bandini, Albert Blecher, John Egan, John Doyle, I. Friedman, S. The success of the local Aerie was made possible through the efforts and time devoted by these men who so gallantly struggled for its success. Today it is one of the outstanding organizations in the county, and a credit to our progressive city.

HONORED GUEST AT BON VOYAGE DINNER

Mr. Arthur Kernan, of New York, who has been spending the past six weeks visiting his relatives in San Francisco, was the honored guest at a bon voyage dinner given at the home of his aunt, Mrs. A. Hilton, of Crocker avenue, last Friday evening.

The dining room and dinner table were artictically decorated. A miniature boat, "California Sunshine," outlined in narcissus, occupied the center of the table, with maiden hair and asparagus ferns massed around it to represent the waves, making a very beautiful effect.

After the dinner the guests, with their brightly colored paper hats, spent the evening dancing.

Mr. Kernan, who is quite an entertainer, and Mrs. J. Coleman favored the guests with several vocal and piano selections.

Those invited to meet the complimented guest were Mr. and Mrs. F. Druhan, Mr. and Mrs. I. Gurmendez, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lohse, Mr. and Mrs. G. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. A. Chesney, Mr. and Mrs. J. Coleman, Mrs. M. Hester, Mr. G. Hansen, Mr. L. Longfellow, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hilton.

The next day, Saturday, a large group of Mr. Kernan's friends gathered at the dock to bid him good-bye, when he left for his home in New York on the steamship California, via the Panama Canal.

The pastor will give a message for young people entitled "Crusade with Christ." We hope also to have a special program for the Christian Endeavor meeting at 7 p. m. All young people are especially invited, and all older folks as well are cordially invited to attend the evening services.

The Sunday school continues to grow. Attendance last Sunday, 129. Present enrollment about 190. The contest ended last Sunday in a tie between the Hustlers and Rustlers. Nevertheless a party will be given for the whole school near Valentine's day. An earnest invitation is extended to old and young to come and visit the Sunday school.

HEARTBURN A GOOD THING DECLARES LOCAL PASTOR

Our opinion always has been that heartburn is distressing, but the pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. George Woodall, tells us that there is a form of heartburn that is better to possess than gold dollars. Sounds strange to us, but almost everything else has been changing and maybe heartburn has changed also. At any rate Mr. Woodall states that he can prove, by the Bible, that heartburn is a good thing, and he will make this matter the theme of his sermon next Sunday evening. Let's go!

More Brilliant as the Years Go By

FIREMEN ENTERTAIN LADIES' AUXILIARY

The members of Company No. 4, Daly City Volunteer Fire Department, honored the Ladies' Auxiliary of that company last Saturday evening with a theatre party and dinner.

The ladies attended the New Daly City Theatre, and upon arriving at the fire house on Peoria street, after the show, found a tempting turkey dinner awaiting them, which had been prepared by the firemen.

Some time was spent at the table, after which the floor was cleared for dancing. Mrs. A. Fonseca, pianist of the Auxiliary, furnished the music for dancing.

E. Cuneo and H. Rolf favored the guests with several vocal duets.

The following firemen and their wives were present to enjoy the evening: Mr. and Mrs. R. Foppiano, Mr. and Mrs. A. Chesney, Mr. and Mrs. Ed O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. E. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. A. Vireno, Mr. and Mrs. George Augustien, Mr. and Mrs. V. Fenstermacher, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. J. Viotti, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fonseca, Mrs. A. Hilton, Mrs. E. Oliotti, Mrs. J. McGuinn, H. Rolf, E. Cuneo and J. Lee.

P. T. A. WILL CELEBRATE FOUNDEDRS' DAY TONIGHT

Birthdays are an interesting occasion in the life of an organization as well as in the life of an individual.

The birthday anniversary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers occurs on February 17, and commemorates the founding of the Congress at Washington, D. C., in 1927.

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers dedicates itself to child welfare every day of the year. A fitting annual celebration of the day should give to local associations a closer touch with the national organization.

So tonight, February 1, the Jefferson high school P. T. A. is going to hold a birthday party. There will be an address or two on the meaning of the day, patriotic songs, and entertainment by some of the talent at the school, as well as a humorous sketch by a dramatic club. Then, to finish off properly, there will be refreshments down stairs.

Mrs. Theodore W. Birney, a native of Marietta, Georgia, and Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, of California, were the founders of the now nation-wide organization. The work of the Congress expanded rapidly. Branches were organized in many states and a magazine was established.

Prominent men, including Theodore Roosevelt, were proud to accept places in the advisory council. Until 1920 the active membership of the Congress was less than 200,000. In 1927 it had passed 7,000,000. This remarkable growth may be attributed to the development of a policy of widespread co-operation and of strong national support to the state branches; to the work of the headquarters staff and the field service; the enlargement of the official publication, the Child Welfare Magazine; the bureau of publicity; the definte program of service, and the splendid spirit of loyalty and responsibility among members.

CALVARY BAPTIST MISSION

The Young People of Calvary Baptist Mission have started a contest that is very interesting and will prove helpful to you if you come and take part. The starting time is 6:40 p. m. Sunday evenings, in the main auditorium. All young pepole welcome.

Besides the regular meetings on Sunday, we have socials, parties, hikes, wenie roasts, and what not. The boys also have a baseball team. It has been said of these events: "I did not know Christian young people could have such a good time." Come and visit us and see what we have to show, and meet a bunch of live wire young folks that will be glad to welcome you.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF COLMA FIREMEN

The annual banquet of the Colma Fire Department was held in Jefferson Hall on Saturday, January 26. It was a gala affair, everything from soup to nuts, including the finest chickens and vegetables that only Colma can produce. The hall was most beautifully decorated, and those present received a memento of the occasion.

There were several speeches made, by our own Professor Savage, Edward Freyer, George Krehl, George Wright aand Silvio Landini, who was referred to as the godfather of the boys, by Professor Savage.

Past Chief George Wright was presented with a gold badge, and George Krehl, first captain of the company, received a massive gold ring. Both badge and ring were inscribed in a most befitting manner. These two boys refused to be re-elected to the offices which they have filled so efficiently for the past three and a half years, as they felt that each member should have their chance of being an officer. Much regret was expressed by the members at their refusal. However, by the trend of the speeches of these officers, they will continue to give the company the benefit of their experience in advice as well as active service.

Music was enjoyed during the evening, being furnished by the boys.

We must not forget that Professor Savage was toastmaster of the evening, and paid the boys many worthy compliments.

The night of January 26 will be added to the list of happy, harmonious and jovial times given by the Colma Fire Department.

Those who enjoyed the affair were: Bert Silicani, Augustine Benassini, George Biggio, Robert Heeringa, Walter Riccomi, George Wright, Fred Bauer, Angelo De Benedetti, Silvio Landini, "godfather," Carl Jones, David Aarta, Jack Callan, Peter Peterson, George Krehl, Atillio Conserva, Peter Valenti, George Garibaldi, William Beraidy, and Edward Freyer and Professor Savage, guests.

ILLEGAL LITERATURE CAUSES MAN'S ARREST

Carl F. Rave was arrested last Saturday by Officer Otto Schramm, on the charge of distributing illegal literature. Rave was distributing illegal literature to passersby in front of a butcher shop on Mission street when Officer Scramm made the arrest.

Rave was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Ellis C. Johnson on Monday morning. The case was set for final hearing on February 21, at 2 o'clock. Rave's bail, which had been $25, was raised to $100 after his preliminary hearing.

It is charged that Rave had been distributing the forbidden literature to occupants of stores and offices along Mission street before being apprehended by Officer Schramm.

A NIGHT IN HAWAII PARTY IS ENJOYED BY GUESTS

MENLO PARK RECALL BACKERS WIN POINT

Backers of the Menlo Park recall petition won first blood in the District Court of Appeals in San Francisco last Monday, when the court overruled a demurrer to their petition for a writ of mandate seeking to compel the Menlo Park City Council to set a date for a recall election.

The petition, which contained more than 200 names, was presented to the Menlo Park Council more than six weeks ago, demanding the recall of Councilmen Alexander Walker and Dr. Alfred E. Blake. When it was not acted upon, the recall backers retained Attorneys Kincaid and Fitzpatrick of Redwood City to force the election. The first step was to secure from the State District Court of Appeal an order directing the Menlo Park City Council to show cause in court last Monday morning why it should not be ordered to set the election date.

Attorney George K. Whitworth, Menlo Park city attorney and representative of Walker and Blake, presented his demurrer at the opening of the hearing and argued that the application for a writ of mandate was improper. The original recall petition presented to the Menlo Park Council was deficient, he claimed, in that it contained the names of two councilmen on one petition. Many signers of the petition, claimed Wentworth, belived they were signing for the recall of one and not the other. Enemies of Walker, he pointed out, signed because Walker's name was there, although they had no desire to recall Blake.

When his demurrer was overruled, Wentworth filed an answer in which a general denial was made of the facts set forth in the petition for a writ of mandate. The answer denied that the signatures were sufficient, claiming that many were secured through fraud and misrepresentation.

Wentworth was given five days in which to file citations of legal authorities supporting his arguments. It will probably be several weeks before a decision is reached.

SEEKS REMOVAL OF SAN BRUNO SHOALS

Declaring that development of the Redwood City harbor and an industrial waterfront along the bay shore in San Mateo county is imperative and dependent upon the removal of the San Bruno shoals, situated across the navigable channel southeast of San Bruno point, the Redwood City council last Monday night authorized City Attorney Mansfield to send a telegram to Congressman Arthur M. Free of San Jose, demanding action on the petition for the government dredging of the bar.

President Fred H. Drake of the San Mateo County Chamber of Commerce explained the natural barrier to deep water shipping, and asked the councilmen to co-operate in urging immediate federal aid.

The San Bruno, San Mateo, Burlingame and South San Francisco councils were asked by Drake to send similar telegrams.

The water over the shoal is between 19 and 26 feet deep, and will not allow passage of ocean-going liners that would serve future county industrial needs. The depth to the south of the shoals is between 47 and 53 feet. North of the channel, the water reaches a depth of from 58 to 70 feet as the bay widens out opposite San Francisco.

SCOUT RALLY TO BE HELD NEXT FRIDAY

The nineteenth anniversary of the birth of the Scout movement in the United States will be appropriately observed by the San Mateo county Scouts at the Burlingame high school auditorium, next Friday evening, February 8. Eight hundred Scouts will stage a great rally, which promises to be the biggest demonstration of Scouting ever undertaken by the boys and leaders, according to Walter T. Kellogg, general chairman for the rally.

The objectives of the rally, according to a statement made by Edward A. Barrer, county executive, are as follows:

To demonstrate the value of Boy Scout program as a means of building the right type of citizenship.

To interest boys who have not as yet received the benefits of the Scouting program and create within them a desire to become Scouts.

To interest churches, schools and institutions in organizing Boy Scout troops under their own auspices.

To bring to the attention of parents the importance of the Scout program to the extent that they will more definitely interest themselves in the boy's individual problems and activities outside the home.

A splendid program has been prepared for this occasion.

REORGANIZATION PROGRAM ADVOCATED BY GOVERNOR

Complete departmentalization of California's state government, in accordance with the program outlined by Governor C. C. Young in his biennial message, is provided in a series of measures that members of the legislature will take up when they reconvene at Sacramento, February 18.

These measures practically carry out the reorganization program started by Governor Young in 1927, putting an end to the old system of independent boards and commissions by combining them into orderly and natural groups providing the maximum of cooperation and economy.

Governor Young regards them as among the most important legislative matters facing the legislature, believing that efficiency in the state's affairs is dependent upon a business like set-up of the various governmental agencies.

The bills, which have the approval of the state administration, provide for the following:

1. Creation of the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs, consisting of the Adjutant General's office, the Veterans' Welfare Board, the Women's Relief Corps Home, and the State Athletic Commission.

2. The creation of the Department of Investment Regulation, consisting of the Department of Banking, the Real Estate Department, the Insurance Department, the Building and Loan Department, and the Corporations Department.

3. Creation of the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards consisting of the Board of Medical Examiners, the Board of Dental Examiners, the Board of Pharmacy, the Veterinary Medical Examiners, the Board of Optometry, the Board of Accountancy, the Boards of Architecture of the Northern and Southern Districts, the Board of Embalmers, the Board of Barber Examiners, the Board of Cosmetology, Board of Registration of Nurses and Board of Pilot Commissioners.

4. Creation of a Department of Penology, consisting of the prisons, the proposed women's penal institution, the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, the Advisory Pardon Board and the Division of Narcotic Control.

In addition to these major proposals, separate bills have been introduced placing the Division of Motor Vehicles in the Department of Public Works and the Surveyor-General, Civil Service Commission, Reclamation Board and State Agricultural Society in the Department of Finance.

The four new major departments, thus created, will take their places with the nine already in existence and will have representation on the governor's council, which is, in effect, a "cabinet" composed of department heads.

In discussing the program, Governor Young said:

"I feel that there is a great need of tieing up the various independent units which have related functions into strong departmental groups, closer to the central government.

"For example, there are the various organizations dealing with business regulations. The desirability of bringing these under one head is clear, since they all serve to protect the public against losses that must occur inevitably in the absence of regulation.

"At the same time, I feel that the autonomy of the respective activities combined in these central departments must be preserved carefully and legislation grouping these activities must avoid the forfeiture of responsibility and independenc of activities.

"These departments and their heads will serve, rather, as a clearing house for relations between the separate activities and will represent the common interests on the governor's council."

COLOR LEADS THE WAY

Like a great rainbow the new color vogue sweeps every horizon. Homes everywhere are taking on a new air of cheer and gladness through the vivifying medium of glorious color. King Color truly rules.

And what a new impetus the present Age of Color has given to the paint industry. Over-night many new shades and effects have come into being. Rich tones. Lustrous colors. Delicate tints. A thousand and one gradations, yet each as far removed one from another as full tones themselves.

Dr. C. D. Holley, head of the research department of Acme White Lead and Color Works, Detroit, out of his forty years experience in creating and perfecting colors for "The House of Color," says that the time is now come when color is not enough. There must be accuracy of color to the last shade. Also, there must be quality of color, otherwise one color that too quickly fades will make discord of what previously was a beautiful and harmonious arrangement.

Dr. Holley, therefore, with his associates, and in collaboration with Miss Nancy McClelland, national authority on interior decoration, has prepared a remarkable book, richly illustrated in color, on the subject of home decoration, entitled "King Color Rules the Home." This book is for the expert guidance of those desirous of being correct and above criticism in color selection for home decoration inside and out. The Selmi Hardware Company, Acme dealers, known as the "House of Color" in this community, will gladly assist any home owner to secure a copy of this book.

A new device records incoming radio messages on a ribbon, which may be used to reproduce them in sound.

BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN TO BE SORRY

One of the gravest problems facing this community, in fact every community of California, is that of street and highway safety. The death toll resulting from automobile accidents is continuously mounting. Had we not had, during these past years, the intelligent and effective organized safety education, under the leadership of the women, working through the Safety Conference of the California Development Association, and the assistance of many other organizations, aiding our law enforcement, we no doubt would have had double the death catastrophes we had faced during the past year.

We are asked to assist in this state wide work of the women to reduce human destruction.

Each year as our automobiles increase on streets and highways of our city and state, the accident menace also increases. Those seeking to reduce accidents wish to first commend the citizens of our community for the assistance they have given in the past in this merciful work, and secondly, to urge, as we enter the new year of 1929, that we redouble our efforts in this task of saving human life.

WARNING ISSUED AS TO OBSCURE LICENSE PLATES

Motorists will profit by taking strict cognizance of the requirements specified under Section 43 of the California Motor Vehicle Act, according to the National Automobile Club upon completion of a recent traffic survey.

Larger license plates, insuring greater ligibility, were provided for the purpose of protecting motorists in general, in an effort to curb the appalling fatalities caused by hit and run drivers. Traffic officers throughout the state are making close observations of vehicles to apprehend anyone who fails or neglects to comply with Section 43 which reads, in part, as follows:

"Every number plate shall at all times be securely fastened to the vehicle to which it is assigned so as to prevent the plate from swinging and at a minimum distance of sixteen inches from the ground, in a position to be clearly visible, and shall be maintained free from foreign materials and in a condition to be clearly legible."

Failure to comply with this act, the club learns, incurs fines of $3 and and $5 for mild violations, but in the event of a serious accident, the obscurity of license plates and the driver's conduct are factors that may enlarge these fines considerably, which all goes to indicate that obscure license plates are interpreted as a reflection on the motorist's regard for carefulness in any phase of driving.

Motorists who fail, refuse or neglect to comply wtih the placing of the license tags in accordance with this code are subject to immediate arrest, and while the fine for the first offense is light, the second offense imposes a heavier one. Police authorities believe legibility of the properly placed license plate will, undoubtedly, have a tendency to subdue the peculiar panic that prompts potential hit and run drivers to flee as fear of apprehension is likely to bring the reckless motorist to a halt to render aid when he realizes easier detection of license plates will result in certain arrest.

With these drastic enforcement measures, the year 1929 will probably disclose a considerable decrease in hit and run fatalities as well as increase in the number of stolen car recoveries.

Five hours is too long for a child to have a cough or cold without taking steps to stop it. The sooner you start with Glessco, the quicker the cold will go.

Break a child's cold with Glessco and you know that's one cold that won't develop into flu!

Even doctors and trained nurses cannot distinguish the start of flu from a bad cold. So don't take chances. Treat every cold, quick, especially at this season of the year. Remember that Glessco, taken in time, will improve a cough in fifteen minutes and break a cold almost over night. And without the use of opiates!

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Witnesses drawn from the peninsular manufacturers and business men's groups testifying at the Interstate Commerce Commission's hearing in San Francisco recently supported the Southern Pacific's opposition to the new railroad which the Western Pacific wants to build to Redwood City. Belief that two railroads on the peninsula would harm, rather than help, industrial development was expressed by W. W. Davis, vice-president of a wire rope manufacturing concern of South San Francisco.

Setting a new weight record for western airmail cargoes, a Boeing Air Transport tri-motored plane landed at the Oakland airport recently with 1400 pounds of mail. Larger cargoes of mail have been carried in the east but this was the heaviest consignment that has ever left Salt Lake City for a Pacific coast airport. Jack Sharpnack and Claire Vance were pilots of the machine.

The Carter bill, authorizing Secretary of the Treasurer Mellon to give the historic coast guard cutter Bear to the city of Oakland, was passed by the House of Representatives in Washington and has been sent to the Senate. Introduced by Representative Albert E. Carter, the measure provides that the famous old ship be used for a museum and for exhibition purposes without charge or admission. The Bear possessing one of the most romantic histories of any ship in the world, was taken from active service when the new cutter Northland was put into the Alaska and Arctic run. No site for the Bear has been selected as yet. It will be placed somewhere along the Oakland waterfront, however.

The total value of the mineral production of California for the year 1928 is conservatively estimated by the statistical division of the state division of mines and mining under the direction of Walter W. Bradley, state mineralogist, to have been approximately $353,444,500. The estimtaed total of $353,444,500 is a decrease of approximately $13,300,000 from the value of the 1927 production. The drop is due mainly to petroleum, and in smaller measure to gold, zinc, lead and brick. Although there was a decrease of approximately only 1,000,000 barrels in the quantity of crude oil, the total value will probably show around $19,000,000 less, owing to lower average prices effective

Lambs and the younger generation are not the only ones who go astray in these days, the bureau of fisheries has declared. For, although traditionally it is only one lamb out of 100 which loses its way, millions of young salmon and other fish are now lost in irrigation canals and diversion ditches as they migrate seaward in California streams, a report states. To keep them on the straight and narrow paths to the sea, the fish are now being given "screen tests" but not the Hollywood kind. The latest device which may be adopted creates an electric zone through which the fish will not pass, according to Shirley Baker, San Francisco engineer, who has just completed a study of fish screens used in other states.

Vast increase in San Francisco's foreign trade was revealed in figures issued recently by William B. Hamilton, Collector of Customs. During the first eleven months of last year foreign trade through this port amounted to $363,696,991, compared to $347,818,110 for the same period in 1927. This is an increase of almost $16,000,000. "The year 1928 was the busiest in the history of the San Francisco Custom House," said Hamilton. "The increase in foreign trade is one reflection of the activity." Exports from San Francisco for the first eleven months of last year exceeded those for the entire year of 1927 by more than $8,000,000. The value of the exports for the eleven months was $182,958,197. November exports last year totaled $19,596,365, an increase of $5,000,000 over the corresponding month of 1927. For the same period imports showed a gain of more than $2,000,000.

The New York Academy of Sciences has awarded a prize of $500 to Dr. D. H. Menzel, assistant astronomer of the University of California Lick Observatory, and Dr. B. P. Gerasimovic, professor at the University of Khardow, Russia, for a paper on "Intra-Atomic Energy as an Important Source of Solar and Stellar Energy," it is announced in Berkeley. The two scientists collaborated in their paper wherein they maintained that the principal source of energy in the sun, is the intra-atomic energy, or energy residing in the normal atom; and that this energy is released from the atoms in an enormous output of radiation when the complex atoms reduce to simpler atoms or disintegrated parts of atoms. Students of the subject declare that this source of energy should suffice to maintain the heat radiation from the sun at its present rate for hundreds of millions of years.

In the appropriation of more than three and a quarter million dollars to be spent by the state on highway improvement Mendocino county will get $222,000 to be allocated as follows: Six miles of work between Heagney's and Red Mountain creek, $110,000; on the McDonald-to-the-Sea highway, $50,000 has been allowed for bridges between Boonville and Flynn creek, and $62,000 for road work between the same points.

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. ## DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.

The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois.

Costly Omelet

What is believed to be the largest omelet ever served was dished out on an Amador county highway near Jackson, Calif., for $25 without coffee. Manuel Lopez was driving along in his automobile with 120 dozen choice eggs packed in the car when there came a collision with an automobile driven by J. H. Williams. Williams was forced to pay for the omelet which resulted from the impact of the cars. The price agreed upon was $25.

If Back Hurts Begin on Salts

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

Cuban Women Lawyers

Cuban women, although they may be lawyers, are refused the privilege of becoming judges by a decision of the Supreme court. The decision states that a judge must be a citizen of the republic with all the functions of a citizen. Inasmuch as women have not yet been granted the right of franchise, judgeships are automatically withheld from them. Women's organizations are protesting against this situation.

WOMEN LEGISLATORS

No less than 145 women will sit in various state legislatures this year, Connecticut leading with twenty female members, while the most populous state, New York, will have but one. New York's member, Mrs. Rhoda Fox Graves, has the added distinction of having been returned to the state assembly for the fifth consecutive term, a record held by no other woman. In private life she is the owner and operator of a big dairy farm.

As time goes by, it is only reasonable to suppose that more and more women will be elected to legislative bodies of the country, including Congress, which will have five women in the new body which will be known as the Seventy-first Congress.

It can hardly be said that any striking influence has been exerted by women in politics so far. They generally align themselves with their parties and among their ranks we find Republicans and Democrats, wets and drys, pacifists and national defense advocates, just as we find among the men. It will probably always be that way.

SENATE TRUE TO FORM

After two weeks of wind-jamming, the Senate finally ratified the Kellogg peace pact, as the august senators themselves knew all the time they would do, by a vote of 85 to 1, the lone hold-out being Senator Blaine of Wisconsin. Previous to the vote, the foreign relations committee brought in a favorable report in which certain "understandings" of the treaty were expressed, which might be considered in the nature of reservations, except that the report also stated that it was not intended to make any reservations. Anyway, the Senate seemed satisfied with this, and voted as stated.

Describing the action on the treaty, Frederick W. Wile told the radio audience that again the Senate had run true to form and had maintained its well-known reputation for "conservatism, investigation and reservation."

While the treaty, which has now been adhered to by some sixty nations, may not be as effective in the preservation of peace as its friends expect, it can hardly do any harm, and may do a lot of good.

Some fellows drive as though they fear they won't get there in time for their smash-up.

WEALTH IN THE DEPTHS

Mother Earth has given generously of her treasures for the benefit of mankind, but it appears that she still holds in her bosom riches even greater than those already yielded up.

Recent news from the Cripple Creek gold district of Colorado tells of the successful operation of mines to a depth of 2,700 feet, whereas the older workings rarely exceeded 1,000 feet in depth.

A new well in Texas is 8,520 feet deep and has yielded more than 600 barrels of oil a day.

Numerous instances can be pointed out in which new and greater oil deposits have been found at lower levels, after the wells drilled to ordinary depths have been exhausted.

The same thing is true of other mineral wealth discovered at ever increasing depths, where modern machinery makes it possible to work with profit.

These facts, together with the desire of scientists for greater knowledge of the earth's interior, have led to the serious suggestion that a great hole be dug to depth of several miles into the earth's crust, in the combined interests of science and industry.

It has been proposed that such an enterprise be undertaken as a government project, it being pointed out that it could be done for the cost of a modern battleship. Here lies a limitless unexplored field for adventure, with possibilities for astonishing results.

PENSIONERS OF 2000 A. D.

This is only 1929, but if history repeats itself there will be veterans of the World war still alive and drawing pensions in the year 2000.

Daniel F. Bakerman, last survivor of the Revolutionary war, lived until April 5, 1869, or 86 years after the war ended. Hiram Cronk drew a pension as a veteran of the War of 1812 until his death on May 13, 1905, at the age of 105 years. Five soliders of the Mexican war are still on the pension rolls 80 years after the close of the war.

In this connection it is interesting to note that two women who are mothers of Civil war veterans are still drawing pensions today. They are Samantha Button of West McHenry, Illinois, and Samantha Farrer, a negro woman of Athens, Alabama.

Although the Civil war ended in 1865, it is quite probable that a veteran or two who followed Grant may be alive and drawing a pension in 1950.

Considering the vastly greater number of those who fought with Pershing in France, it is not unreasonable to suppose that some of them will still be in the land of the living in the year 2000. A youngster of 17 who enlisted in 1917 would be 100 years old then. And with the greater span of life which mdern science is making possible, there will doubtless be many attain that age.

MOSLEM FANATICISM

Fidelity to religious principles is characteristic of zealous members of all faiths, but perhaps nowhere is it carried to greater lengths than among Mohammedans. This was illustrated strikingly in the case of a French officer in Morocco, who was attended by a faithful native orderly.

Being billeted in a house considered sacred because it had once been occupied by a descendant of Mohammed, the officer was warned not to use tobacco within its walls. Thinking such a rule quite foolish, the officer did not take it seriously, and one day lay on a couch and proceeded to light a cigar. The orderly, who would have risked his life for his master under ordinary circumstances, drew his pistol and killed the officer where he lay. Having performed what he considered an imperative religious duty, the Mohammedan calmly awaited execution.

Such fanaticism and fatalism accounts for the reckless manner in which barbaric tribes wage war in the face of certain extermination. It is best to humor their peculiarities sometimes.

ANOTHER FREAK BILL

Now comes Congressman Black of Brooklyn with the prize freak bill of the season, which provides that whoever refers orally or in writing to the religion of a candidate for president, vice-president, senator or congressman shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than three years, etc.

Now, many will agree that using a man's religion against him in a campaign is unjust, but to try to prevent such a thing being done through a law as proposed is not only a violation of freedom of speech, but an utterly foolish and futile proceeding.

Besides, no candidate worthy to aspire to either of the offices mentioned would want to conceal his religion. To do so would imply that he was either ashamed of it or afraid to have it known. A candidate who would invoke such a law in his own behalf would be held in contempt.

Someone has figured that the present appropriation for keeping the country dry is 30 cents a year for each person. How many can be kept on the water wagon by 30 cents worth of law a year?

General Pershing will hereafter receive a salute of nineteen guns instead of seventeen. But some gangsters get almost that many.

The national debt has been reduced to $8,922,466.58. Anyway, most of us can grasp the significance of the 58 cents.

By this time Dad is getting tired of the mechanical toys and may give Willie a chance to play with them.

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY

Sixty-four years ago there ended a struggle which had threatened the very existence of our nation. A struggle in which two sections of our country had arrayed themselves against each other and fought for four years with bitter hatred. At that time it seemed to many impossible that the wound would ever heal, that enmities could be forgotten. Today, so complete has been the reunion of the two factions that it seems even more impossible that such a tragic affair could have occurred.

There remain but a few of the Blue and of the Gray who fought so valiantly and stubbornly fer what each believed to be the right. With the passage of years they have forgiven and forgotten. Since the time of that futile conflict their descendants have fought side by side and with equal valor for the glory of the Stars and Stripes. It could not be said those of the North are more patriotic than those of the South.

These remaining few are fast succumbing to the ravages of time. While there are yet some of those two great hosts for whom taps have not been sounded, it is planned that there be held, in the city of Washington, in the year 1929, a grand reunion.

To this end Congressman Edgar Howard, of Nebraska, has introduced a bill to provide for an appropriation to bear the expense of such reunion and the appointment of a commission to carry out the plans. The commission, as provided in the bill, would consist of the General of the United States army, the commander of the Spanish-American War Veterans, the commander of the American Legion, the commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars, and such other persons as the president of the United States may appoint.

Such a reunion, symbolizing the complete unity of our nation, following the historic assemblies of the Blue and the Gray at Gettysburg, Vicksburg and Stony Mountain, and the return of captured battle flags, would be an event of national significance and serve as an inspirational object lesson to our people for generations to come. ### THE STORY

Events of the story as set forth in the journal of William A. Porter, professor of English literature:

The professor's uncle, Horace Porter, died mysteriously at his home, Twin Hollows, now the professor's property. Jane, the professor's wife, is a psychic. With their niece, Edith, the Porters go to Twin Hollows for their vacation, despite Jane's reluctance. A letter Horace had been writing at the time of his death shows that he was interested in spiritualism. It hints of danger. A 'red lamp" is mentioned. They take up their residence in the lodge, because of Jane's aversion to the house. Warren Halliday, in love with Edith, comes to live in the boathouse. A number of sheep are mysteriously killed in the vicinity. The slayer leaves a cabalistic sign at the scene of the killings. Greenough, a detective, arrives and Porter has a feeling that he is under suspicion. Twin Hollows is rented to an elderly, partially paralyzed man, Bethel, who, with his secretary, Gordon, takes possession. A youth, Carroway, on watch for the sheep killer, disappears. Porter has the red lamp hidden in a room of which he alone has the key, but many people, including the professor himself, believe they have seen its reflection at Twin Hollows. Halliday is mysteriously attacked and seriously injured. Carroway is found in the bay, murdered. Mary Morrison, Porter's cook, disappears.

"If you amateurs would keep out," he grumbled, "we would get somewhere with this case. Some day one of you is going to be missing, and I'll have more trouble on my hands."

From which one may gather that Mr. Greenough feels that we are not through with the situation.

Halliday and Edith have taken the car and gone out this evening. Jane is very uneasy, but I feel that they will be safe enough.

The best time to travel is immediately after a railroad accident.

July 25

And now where are we?

We can no longer doubt that the same hand which throttled Carroway and attacked Halliday, has brought about the disappearance and almost certain murder of Maggie Morrison.

Halliday knows it. Edith knows it. I know it. But what use are we to make of our knowledge? What effect, for instance, will it have on my own serio-comic position? Could Greenough arrest me on suspicion? Although Halliday laughs at that, he is, I think, a trifle uncertain. He feels, as I do, that before long Greenough will have to satisfy the public by an arrest of some sort, and that I am the only person against whom he has the shadow of a case.

What developed last night is as follows: Halliday got out of the car at the spot where the truck was found, and had Edith go back and approach slowly, along the road from town. Approximately, the conditions were the same as those of the night of the disappearance, save that no rain was falling.

Halliday, it appears, was searching for that spot, back among the trees, where the unknown had waited, secure from observation but still able to see the truck's lights far enough away to be able to run out and hail it before it had passed.

After two or three experiments he found the proper location, and there commenced a sort of intensive search with the pocket flash, with Edith in the car, to warn him of any approach, and the lights out.

Not under the tree he had selected, but perhaps a dozen feet away from it, he found, well trampled into the ground, a small screw cap, made of tin; exactly similar, he tells me, to those used on the cans of certain makes of ether, and underneath which there is a cork.

"In my case, he was unlucky," he explains. "He went through the same procedure, and took the cap off before he hailed me, but the cork came out. He had better luck this last time."

As to his discovery of the murderer's infernal symbol, he is more reticent. He had some sort of a "hunch" to examine the trees themselves, he says simply.

"You thought there might be something on a tree?"

[illegible] that I thought about

The day has brought no developments in the Morrison case, which has settled down more or less into a routine. The searchers are fewer each day; the fishermen have gone back to their nets and trawls, and today will probably see the last of the attempts to drag likely spots on the bay.

There are many now who believe that this time the anchor rope is shorter, and that the body, securely anchored to the ooze at the bottom of the bay, will not be uncovered by the lowest tide.

But if the day has brought no developments outside, it has brought one or two to us here.

For one thing, the morning mail returned to me through the dead-letter office my letter of thanks to the young woman in Salem, Ohio, an event which would puzzle me more, did I not suspect the lady of using a fictitious name, for all her apparent frankness.

For another, Jane has at last unbosomed herself. She maintains that on the night of the nineteenth she saw Maggie Morrison, clairvoyantly. Rather on the morning of the twentieth, for granted that she has actually had another of her curious psychic experiences, there is a discrepancy in time here as marked as the interval between Uncle Horace's death and her vision of him lying on the library floor.

Maggie Morrison disappeared presumably at eleven o'clock the night of the 19th; Jane's vision occurred at three the morning of the 20th, or four hours later. . . .

This morning, at eleven o'clock, Jane left the cottage for the first time in days, giving as an excuse that she meant to look over Warren Halliday's clothing and bring back such as required mending.

When an hour had gone by and she had not returned, I began to grow uneasy. Halliday, I knew, was out on the bay, and in such times as these any small deviation from the normal is upsetting. I started after her, therefore, and was startled not to find her in the living quarters or on the veranda. But when I called she answered from below, and going down I found her among the boats.

"Well!" I said. "And are you going fishing?"

"I was just wandering about," she said. "There's another boat, isn't there?"

"Halliday's out in it. Why?"

But she pretended not to hear me, and went up the steps again. Even then she made various excuses not to leave at once. She went inside, and I could hear her straightening the small living room. When there was nothing more to do she came out again.

"I don't think he has cooked a thing since it happened," she said. "Suppose we wait for him, and take him back to luncheon?"

She is no actress, is Jane, and it began to dawn on me that she was determined to wait for Halliday's return, and that she had one of her hidden reasons for it. It was there, sitting on the boathouse veranda, that she finally told her story, which is detailed in the extreme.

"You remember," she said, "the [illegible] that for some brief time I floundered about At last I found the sun-dial, by striking against it, and thus orienting myself, turned about and struck back toward the Lodge.

I had not gone ten feet before I heard the bell ringing.

(Note: A large bell on the kitchen porch of the main house and used in times before the telephone was installed, to summon the gardener. It is rung by pulling a rope attached to it.)

It rang sharply twice and then abruptly stopped, and the sudden silence seemed somehow ominous, like the stillness after a shriek.

There were no lights in the main house, and no further sounds came from it. I daresay at such times one does not think; one acts automatically. I do not recall thinking at all, but I do recall trying to feel my way through the trees, and that I ran into one and was partially stunned for an instant.

The house was still completely dark and silent. I felt my way with more caution, skirted the shrubbery, and at last found the railing leading up the steps to the kitchen. Here I was on safer ground, and I crossed the small porch to the door with increasd confidence, only to stumble over something and almost fall. I knew at once what it was, and I felt suddenly ill although my brain was as active as ever in my life. But I found some matches in my dressing-gown pocket, and striking one bent over a figure lying prone at my feet. It was young Gordon, unconscious and bleeding from a blow on the head, and securely tied with a rope. I was still stooping over him, fumbling for another match, when a flashlight shone in my face, fairly blinding me. It played on me for a moment, and then on the boy stretched on the floor and now slightly moving.

"What's happened?" said a voice from behind it, and with relief I recognized it as the doctor's.

"He's hurt," I said, rising dizzily. "Struck on the head, I think."

"Open the door there and turn on the lights. I'll carry him in."

I did as he told me, being still somewhat unsteady, and as he laid the boy on the floor and straightened I was aware that his eyes, as they rested on me, were hostile and suspicious.

Immediately, however, he went to work on the boy, examining him first and then removing the rope.

"He's only stunned," he said, and examined the wound in the scalp carefully. After that he dressed it, the boy by that time moving about and groaning, but still only partially conscious. When the dressing was done the doctor disappeared and returned with a cushion. Keeping the boy supine, he slipped it under his head. Then he straightened.

"You'd better notify the old man," he said. "I'll stay here, if you don't mind."

And from the look he gave me, I gathered that he had no intention of leaving me with the boy.

I made my way upstairs to the room over the den, and knocked for some time before I was heard. Then Mr. Bethel called out, startled, and I asked if I could come in. I heard him making heavy work of getting out of bed, and finally he shot the bolt and opening the door an inch or two glared out at me.

"What the devil's the matter?"

"Nothing serious," I said. "There's been a little trouble downstairs, and we thought you'd better be told."

"A fire!"

"Not a fire," I reassured him, and gave him a brief account of what had occurred.

He was not particularly gracious; demanded to know what the boy was doing outside at that hour, and seemed to feel that, with a doctor already in the house, his responsibility was ended. As there was actually nothing he could do, I helped him back to his bed and left him sitting on the side, an unpleasant but helpless figure.

The boy was conscious when I went back to the kitchen, staring around him, and particularly concentrated on the doctor and myself. He put his hand to his head and felt the bandage.

"Where'd I get that?" he asked thickly.

After a time he tried to get up, and the doctor put him into a chair.

"Now, Gordon," he said, "what happened to you? Try and think."

"He hit me," he said finally. "The dirty devil!"

"Who hit you?"

But he was still too dazed for coherent thought. He improved rapidly after that, however, although he complained of severe headache. He became garrulous, too, as happens after concussion, but out of his maunderings we were able to secure a fairly connected story.

He had been unable to sleep, because of certain noises in his room. He had got up, and gone down to the kitchen for something to eat. After that, reluctant to go up to his room again, he had wandered out onto the kitchen steps and sat there. It was then that he heard some one stealthily approaching the house.

He listened, and finally he heard a window of the old gun room next to the laundry being raised. He stared that way, and insists he saw a dark figure there. The next moment it was gone, and he was certain there was some one in the house.

He had, apparently, turned to enter the house and head off the intruder, but was struck down in the doorway. On the matter of ringing the bell he was rather vague at first, not remembering that he had done so, but later saying he had had his hand on the rope, when the blow came.

Hayward listened to this intently. Then he turned to me.

"And you were where, Porter?"

"By the sun-dial. On the other side of it. I had started toward home."

"Do you mean to say that, after that bell rang, this man Gordon speaks of had time to tie him and escape, before you got here?"

"I've told you the facts. It isn't a simple matter to get here from the sun-dial, in the dark."

In spite of the doctor's attitude and my own fears, I cannot see today that a dispassionate examination of the evidence would really involve me.

Gordon saw a man enter the gun room window, and was attacked from the kitchen by that man. It must be perfectly evident to Greenough, on hearing the doctor's story, that had I for any reason desired to make some nefarious entrance into the house, I need not have resorted to a window. I have keys to every door, and can produce them.

Los Angeles Boy Needed Help

Leroy Young, 1116 Georgia St., Los Angeles, is a "regular fellow," active in sports, and at the top in his classes at school. To look at him now, you'd think he never had a day's sickness but his mother says: "When Leroy was just a little fellow, we found his stomach and bowels were weak. He kept suffering from constipation. Nothing he ate agreed with him. He was fretful, feverish and puny.

"When we started giving him California Fig Syrup his condition improved quickly. His constipation and biliousness stopped and he has had no more trouble of that kind. I have since used California Fig Syrup with him for colds and upset spells. He likes it because it tastes so good and I like it because it helps him so wonderfully!"

California Fig Syrup has been the trusted standby of mothers for over 50 years. Leading physicians recommend it. It is purely vegetable and works with Nature to regulate, tone and strengthen the stomach and bowels of children so they get full nourishment from their food and waste is eliminated in a normal way.

Four million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it. Always look for the word "California" on the carton to be sure of getting the genuine.

Worth Knowing When Winter Cold Comes!

Did you ever hear of a five-hour remedy for colds? There is one, and it really does bring you out of it completely. Even if it's grippe, this method works, only takes longer. Pape's Cold Compound is in tablet form. Pleasant-tasting, but it surely has the "authority!"—Adv.

Few people are wise enough to know that ignorance is bliss.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any drug store has the genuine, prescriptional product.

COULD NOT SLEEP NIGHTS

Helped By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fairhaven, Mass.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and I think it is a wonderful tonic. When I feel nervous and run-down my husband gets me a bottle right away. It is a great help to me and I think that if other people would only take it when they feel all run-down and take it as the directions say, they would find it a great benefit. My worst symptoms were nervousness and tired feelings. I could not sleep nights and I did not care about my work. I was so nervous I would cry if anyone looked at me."—Mrs. Ada Besse, 196 Washington Street, Fairhaven, Mass.

One Wild Beast That Defies Power of Man

In the eternal game of "tag" between man and the animals he has hunted, there is only one beast known to man that has never been caught. Every zoo in the world would like very much to get the white rhinoceros to be found in large numbers near the rivers of the Sudan, but none has thus far been successful.

It has been found so hopeless to attempt to catch a white rhinoceros alive that the government at Khartoum has forbidden the hunting of this strange animal. Compared with the white rhino, lions and elephants are easy marks. He will kill his hunter or himself. At first sight of a human the white rhino charges. If the hunter evades his fierce onrush, the rhino will, in his blind rage, charge the first substantial object within his reach, with a ferocity terrible to behold.

It is the only animal which, threatened with captivity, will deliberately commit suicide. Young white rhinos which were captured by natives died within a very short time, so sensitive are they to captivity. If it were possible to catch them, they would keep up their frenzied charges until they killed themselves.

The London zoo authorities have offered thousands of pounds for a specimen of the white rhinoceros, and until the ban of the Sudan government was established, practically every native in the section tried to catch one. It was the great slaughter of the beasts in an effort to capture one alive which resulted in the law against hunting the white rhino, which seems determinedly to prefer death—his death or the hunter's—to captivity.

Fingerless Families

The story is that the great-great-grandmother, when she was young, told a lie about an appie, whereupon her parents threatened her with a curse that her children later on would be born with deformed hands. Whether it is true or not, the family of whom the story is told have for four generations suffered from a curious deformity. Ten members have had something wrong with their fingers, some having only two joints instead of three in some of the fingers, others having no finger-nails, and one or two being without fingers at all.—London Tit-Bits.

Impolite

A little girl lives near a dog which is loved and cared for by a childless woman. The owner of the dog came to call on the little girl's mother.

"Mrs. Blank," she said, "I think Mary is changing so much. I don't want to have any hard feelings, but I really thought you ought to know that I overheard her being very impolite."

"Sure, I want to know, and thank you for calling my attention to the matter. I shall speak to Mary about it. What did Mary say?" asked the agitated mother.

"My dog was out in front as she went to school and she said, 'You dirty cur, don't you dare touch me.'"

Few men boast how poor they once were unless they are now rich.

FROM ALL CORNERS

Robert Boardman went into the air in 1928 a single man, returning to earth in 1929 married. Miss Polly Archer Barton was the bride and Dr. J. A. McClure performed the ceremony, which took place over St. Petersburg, Fla., as the New Year was welcomed in. The bridal party was composed of 12 persons flying in a big tri-motored monoplane.

Not that it matters, but a biographer of General Pershing writes that the leader of the A. E. F. is of Alsatian descent, one of his ancestors having been Frederick Pfoerschin, who changed his name to Pershing after coming to America.

Dr. David Starr Jordan, president emeritus of Leland Stanford University, is probably the most rapid reader in the world. Although he will be 78 years old on January 19, he says: "Even now I sometimes read at one glance a full page of English or French." Which, one might say, is quite an eyeful.

Arthur Brisbane, who knows nearly everything, including much that isn't so, thinks that inhabitants of Mars may have had flying machines for ten million years. It would be a joke on Arthur if that proposed new 200-inch telescope should prove him to be wrong.

The Bermuda house of assembly, in session at Hamilton, determined to solve the parking problem before it became a problem. By a margin of one vote, the request of doctors for permission to operate automobiles on the island was denied. There are 10 cars there now, and the legislators thought that was enough.

A goverment bulletin says that "a trapped skunk can be killed without disagreeable odorous consequences if it is approached slowly and quietly and given a sharp blow across the back with a stick." We merely pass the information along without assuming any responsibility in the matter.

Jonnie Perry, a stunt flyer, dropped 2,000 feet with a parachute at Westfield, N. J., landing safely in an apple tree. But in trying to release his 'chute he fell ou of the tree and broke his wrist. He remarked that "in making a landing the last 10 feet are the hardest."

SIDELIGHTS

Louis Springborn of Chicago has a sensitive nature, and was grieved because his family "turned up their noses" when he had brought home only $18 after staging a robbery. Peeved at their lack of appreciation, Springborn gave himself up at the police station and made a New Year's resolution to rob no more.

George Wells, jailed for intoxication at Florence, Ala., next day preached to fellow prisoners what was described as "a beautiful sermon and delivered two masterful prayers," after which he scrubbed his cell and put it in spotless condition. These evidences of good intentions so impressed officials that he was turned loose with the admonition to keep moving.

Malvin Gray Johnson, 32, a negro artist of New York, recently exhibited a painting representing his conception of the well-known negro spiritual, "Swing Low Sweet Chariot." Just how he worked out the theme we do not know, but anyway he won a prize of $250 for his effort.

Ewald Benesch of Marshfield, Wis., declares that the weather during the greater part of 1929 will be "medium" He makes his weather forecast each New Year's day, after locking himself in his cellar, cutting a big onion in half and studying the strata of its structure as shown by its rings. Neighbors believe that Benesch "knows his onions."

Harry B. Thayer, telephone magnate, says that it is easy to fool yourself; more difficult to fool those you work for; still more difficult to fool those you work with, and almost impossible to fool the people who work under your direction.

Louisville tradesmen and others have been sorely annoyed by a practical joker who orders goods by telephone to be delivered to persons and addresses which do not exist. One firm received more than 50 orders in one day. Police are also called to quell imaginary riots and other disorders. Detectives are hot on the culprit's trail, and maybe they have caught him by this time.

Patrons of certain German theaters are furnished a mechanical device with which to applaud, thus saving wear and tear on the hands. The innovation will not be complete, however, until a hissing attachment is provided.

YOUR BANK AND HOW TO USE IT

Folks who are prone to wonder what a bank consists of besides an imposing array of marble or granite pillars, a platoon of hustling tellers, and a sustained clatter of adding machines, would be given a very striking lesson in human and financial history if they would accept the opportunity to gaze upon the heart and the nerve centers of the modern depository. They would encounter much of interest and perhaps a few surprises. Principally, they would find many new ways of saving their money and increasing their incomes.

There is still more or less mystery attached to the operations of the average bank despite very commendable efforts on the part of both the bank and the public to clarify its processes through the newspapers and otherwise. It may not be generally understood that every single money transaction, from the financing of a railroad to the paying of the housewife's monthly grocery bill can be taken care of by the modern bank.

There may be considerable interest in the fact that it handles many non-financial items as well. It will put a trunk in safe deposit or ship a fur coat from point to point for a customer. In some instances if the customer is an eligible alien, it will instruct him in naturalization procedure and assist him in obtaining witnesses for his naturalization hearing. It will also assist him in bringing his kinfolks from the home country under the existing immigration laws. In other words, it will make him a good citizen as well as a good customer.

The world is its field. It sends its agents out through sunshine and storm, into imposing metropolitan institutions and log cabin country schools, into isolated lumber camps and down into the depths of mile-deep mines to collect the pennies, nickels and dimes of the school child or the savings of the toiler so that both might be able to make a decent bid for future prosperity.

It will collect a bill in San Francisco for a merchant in Shanghi or in London for a depositor in Merced. It will be responsible for the establishment of whole communities by buying up railroad and other developement stocks and bonds.

It is understandable that a bank will do all of these things to give its customers the highest and most comprehensive type of service. But there are some things that may not be so understandable, and others that may be a bit mysterious.

For instance: Why do the big banks keep exhaustive records on such items as the crop conditions of Indo-China or the rubber output of the tropics? Why are they so keenly interested in such things as a change of ministries in Germany or a shift in the political set-up of Jugo-Slavia? Why does the developement of an oil concessions in the Ukraine or in Tampico set them to figuring busily? It is easy enough to understand their interest in Wall Street, but why should they keep a close and continuous record of a revolution in Nicaragua? Strange as it may seem, all of these conditions come under the heading of customer service, also.

The Bank of Italy in a series of articles describing the set-up and the activities of each department with which the public comes in contact, has endeavored to answer everything that might not be readily understandable regarding its interests and operations. The articles, written in plain, non-technicle fashion, much the same as the customer himself might write them, are intended to display a cross section of the entire banking establishment with all of the various mechanisms working. The articles emphize particularly that it is as easy to do business with one department as with another and that they are all dedicated to the building up of the prosperity of the individual or the interest that takes advantages of them.

FACTS ABOUT THE TELEPHONE

Twenty years ago there were about 6,500,000 telephones in the United States. Today there are over 19,000,000.

The city of Chicago recently opened its first dial telephone office in a residential area, the new office bearing the prefix of Longbeach.

The total number of public telephone pay stations in England on March 30, 1928, was 24,054, according to the British postmaster general.

The total number of telephones in the British Post Office telephone system on June 30, 1928, was 1,662,201.

For the year 1928 the average number of telephone conversations completed daily in the United States was about 75,000,000.

It is reported that the first telephone conversation has recently taken place between Egypt and Transjordania, to Cairo, crossing Palestine and passing through thousands of miles of desert.

France has the world's largest submarine, 400 feet long, which cost about $8,000,000.

FORMER CITY CLERK MUST FACE TRIAL

Miss Nettie A. Willits, former city clerk of San Bruno, was bound over to the Superior Court last Tuesday afternoon on seven charges of embezzlement and one charge of misappropriation of San Bruno's public moneys, following three days of preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Percy Jackson of Burlingame. Her bail was fixed at $1,000 cash or $2,000 bond. The bail bonds were supplied by friends immediately and Miss Willits left the court room with a group of relatives and friends.
